INTERNATIONAL ARMAMENT CORPORATION

On September 1, 1978, Mrs. [redacted] International Armament Corporation, 10 Prince Street, Alexandria, Virginia, advised it would not be possible to trace a Mauser Cavalry Carbine, Model Number 1909, 7.65 caliber, Serial Number [redacted] Mrs. [redacted] advised that these particular weapons were part of a large number of [redacted] Military Surplus weapons imported by International Armament prior to 1968, and that before 1968, there were no governmental regulations requiring that records be maintained regarding their purchase. Mrs. [redacted] further advised that International Armament purchased at least 20,000 Surplus [redacted] Military rifles, and that the majority of them would have been sold prior to 1968. Mrs. [redacted] advised that any subsequent resale of these weapons, either prior to 1968, or after 1968, to individuals, corporations, or governments, would not be recorded by serial number, but would be recorded chronologically. She did state that the serial number would be recorded on the sales invoice, but that a date or approximate date of sale would be needed to locate a particular invoice.
